The passion for wood at its finest

At Martin Windows and Doors, our decision-making process is based primarily on the satisfaction of our customers. As we receive your unique and challenging orders, we constantly strive to achieve a tangible result designed to brave all weather conditions in complete peace and security. Your continued satisfaction reaffirmed at each experience motivates our constant quest for beauty, durability and performance.

Since 1964, we imagine, design and manufacture high-quality windows and doors intended for the high-end residential market as well as for your patrimonial projects. This dedication to reach the highest standards and to customize them manifests itself both in our creations as well as deep within the heart of our hard-working and talented teams. The richness of Ponderosa pine, our favorite wood specie, inspires not only our designs, since day one of our company, but also enriches the conception of each and every one of our products.

From the original idea to the customer service, a thorough search for quality has become, over the years, a second nature for us all.

A modern heritage

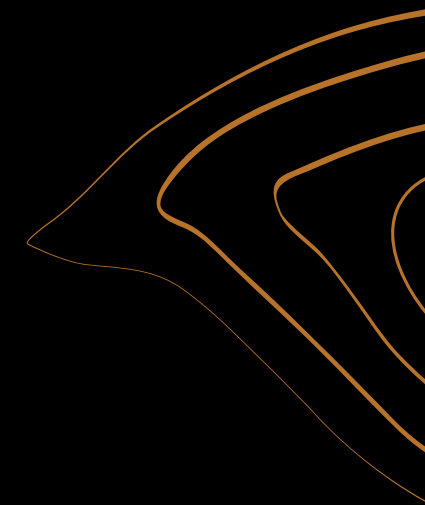

Three generations later, we combine the know-how based on tradition to the progresses of today's modern technologies, its practical and aesthetic aspects. We unite the timeless character of wood to the technological advantages of the aluminum cladding. As a watchmaker would do, we renew and refine continually our broad range of products as part of our continuous improvement process.

What is our definition of the word "heritage"? That it will be accepted, understood and, who knows, adopted by the next generation! Through our creations, we are hoping to pass on to you our taste for beauty and excellence in what you observe everyday life: your windows and doors.
